DRNC prioritizes its work into categories we call Targets that help guide our work. Below are DRNC’s proposed 2024 Targets. You can find more information about these priorities, including who they will benefit and the reasons behind them, by visiting our website and reading the Proposed Targets for 2024.

Which of the Targets below have you or your family members experienced issues or do you consider a priority for the disability community in North Carolina? Choose as many as apply.

- Keep students with disabilities in school
- Ensure that students with disabilities are safe from abuse and harmful interventions in school
- Advocate for people with disabilities to have equal access to integrated jobs that pay at least minimum wage
- Enforce the right of people with disabilities to have equal access to their communities
- Reduce North Carolina’s Over-Reliance on Psychiatric Residential Treatment Facilities (PRTFs)
- Reduce unnecessary institutionalization of people with disabilities and improve home and community-based healthcare services and support
- Protect the housing rights of people with disabilities under both federal and state law
- Advocate for a safe, equitable and just criminal justice system for people with disabilities
- Enforce the right of disabled people to control their own lives

What resources or supports do you think are lacking for people with disabilities in your community?

DRNC also provides core advocacy activities outside of our Target work including outreach; voting rights; information, referral and self-advocacy support; public policy advocacy and representative payee reviews. You can learn more about these ongoing services on our website.
